Featured Ingredients & Key Benefits

Red Ganoderma Lucidum (Red Reishi)

Ganoderma lucidum, also known as reishi, is a type of fungi that has been widely used in Eastern medicine for centuries. In Shennong Bencaojing (also known as The Classic of Herbal Medicine), Red Ganoderma lucidum (G. lucidum) is particularly noted as one of the “upper herbs”, described as nontoxic and harmless supplements to help promote health and longevity. Red reishi contains several antioxidant molecules, including triterpenoids, polysaccharides, and peptidoglycans that help to support the immune system and respiratory health*.

Echinacea Extract

Echinacea is a perennial plant that has been used as herbs by people around the world. It has received increasing popularity due to its effectiveness of combating flu, and colds. In addition to phenols, which are known for their antioxidant properties, Echinacea extract also have alkylamides, which can benefit the immune system. What’s more, the polysaccharides, glycoproteins, and caffeic acid derivatives the extract contains can serve as immune-modulating agents that provide further support to the immune system*.
